Facilitating to set relations right

ONE-DAY WORKSHOP

Presenters: Dr David Moore and Dr Alikki Vernon

University College, Melbourne University

Date: Thursday 19th August 2027

Time: 9:30am – 5:00pm

This workshop has been developed for restorative practitioners who have attended a Conflict Transformation through Group Conferencing workshop, and are seeking to consolidate &/or extend their facilitation practice.

Preparing for Restorative Interventions in Complex Cases

Participants will:

- examine how to adapt group conferencing and other restorative practices when dealing with psychosocially complex cases involving family violence or sexual assault, or workplace cases that involve a complex set of entangled issues;
- analyse combinations of processes and techniques for dispute-handling, conflict-management, and change-management that can address complex situations constructively;
- revise skills for diagnosing situations, defining process(es), and preparing participants;
- practise key preparation skills in small- and large-group exercises.

Participants are welcome to present their own [de-identified past-or-current] cases for discussion and analysis.

The training meets the Best Practice Standards developed by the Australian Association of Restorative Justice (AARJ) for training in Group Conference facilitation.

1-day Workshop fee: $550

The workshop is fully catered
